

Instructional Support Analyst
Cyd Burrows

Cyd has been with USD for over 7 years working primarily with distance education, online course design and delivery, and supporting faculty in their use of existing and emerging technologies. Cyd's goal is to provide inspiration and to work with instructors, encouraging the adoption and incorporation of available and appropriate technologies for teaching, and in creating and maintaining rich and powerful learning environments. Cyd's interests include distance and mobile educational access, collaborative online technology, and researching emerging technologies that impact education.